

Innovation – the key to global success

The Schaeffler Group is a leading international manufacturer of rolling bearings and supplier to the automotive industry. Its three strong brands, INA, FAG, and LuK, stand for high-quality and innovative technology.

“Innovation can be planned” is one of the company’s principles. Systematic innovation management, a global network of knowledge and the regular personal exchange of experiences are all methods that we use to implement this principle successfully. 5,000 employees in 30 development centers work on 900 new developments that are filed for patent applications annually.

Shared knowledge brings about progress, which is why science has a permanent home at INA, FAG, and LuK.
